

Charles N. Broadbent

Watson — Broadbent Barn

There was once a pioneer couple of Timpanogos Valley, whose names were James Watson and Janet Campbell. They early lived in a 12x12 ft. log home, which had a loft in it for sleeping quarters. It was located at 573 East 400 North, set back in the lot. Later, they built a red sandstone small home on the same lot, which sat closer to the street. The skeleton of it remains today. These people also owned the corner where Warren Junior Jones and earlier Robert Clyde, and earlier Charles Nuttall Broadbent families have lived.

Mr. Watson had begun to build this barn at about 380 North 400 East, when he sold out to Charles

Mr. Broadbent finished building the above barn with the help of his neighbors and continued raising his family there. The root cellar door on the south of the home was the favorite slide for Mima, Marden, Clyde, and Alice as children. His neighbors to the south, were the parents of Fay Coleman McNaughtan (Jay).

Successive owners of the barn, have been: James Watson, Charles N. Broadbent, Robert Forbes Clyde, and Warren Junior Jones. It is estimated to be 88 years old

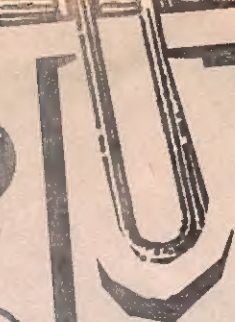

Later, Charles N. Broadbent bought the field east of the Leslie and later John Milliner home for the use of his farm animals. This bordered Frank Conrad on the east. Still later, Mr. Broadbent moved his family to the Sylvester Broadbent home at 360 West 100 South in Heber City.

Note: Informants: Mima, Marden and Alice.
